

Darryn, you were a special child, always a pleasure to us. Growing up, you were always designing things so it came as no surprise that you wanted to be an architect. You had some very good female friends but no special one. I always thought that when you found her, she would be very special. The day you said "I met this girl", I remember thinking, this one is different.

When we met Jennifer, she was indeed very special. Jen you are so intelligent and creative but more than that a very good and caring person. We have enjoyed knowing you as a person and then "the one for Darryn". When I look at the two of you together I know you are happy. As you celebrate your marriage today, I am happy also for you and that Jennifer will be officially a part of our family although I have been thinking of her that way for some time now, I guess to me this marriage means the union of two very special people, one that i've loved since the day he was born and the other I have grown to love so much.

When I think about you over these past years, how you think alike, how you pull together no matter what the circumstance, I am convinced that you were destined to be together.

Our wish for you is to have a very good and happy married life with all the best things. Always show your very deep love for each other. May your love grow day by day, year by year.

You have memories, I think mostly good ones of New York, New Zealand, etc. It was sometimes hard, but you've come a long way. Be happy. Always know that we love you.
